 ${f l}$  We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." SIR.—Whilst in this case blame is due to the Policeman for his indiscretion, is not the root of the fault in our system of Police? The fundamental error is in the foolish attempt to assimilate the Police to the Military. Whatever may have been the origin of this, whether vanity or any other cause, there can be no question that it is most mischievous. Not only is a policeman not a soldier, but he should be, in almost everything, the opposite of one. The duty of a soldier in section is simple, implicit, prompt obedience. This is not the only duty of policeman. In him intelligence is more important than physical process; and the scope of his duty should embrace the erercise of it. If then the duties and character of theone differ so widely from the other, why should there be the constant effort made to liken them? Why must our Superintendent be called Captain? Why must the policemen have believes made to imitate as closely as possible those of our troops? These are by no means of the most useful pattern. The attempt to play at soldiers and soldiering may be all very well for children, but for men it is unworthy. The only features in which policemon may well strive to imitate their military friends are their cleanliness, good order, and the methods of operation in the discharge of their severally important duties are body of people will allow themselves to be innot only dissimilar, they are distinctly opposite. The Rangeon Gazette writes .- It can scarcely he expected for a year or two yet, but it is to be hoped that in time some method of registering the trans-frontier trade of Upper Burmah wil be devised. Hitherto the figures have been compiled on the old method which was started when the upper province was really itself a trans-frontier country. It is now, however, nearly two years since it cessed to be so, and, though-it is well to continue the present system until the country is settled and the new boundaries clearly defined, eventually all Burmah must be treated as one country, and the trans-frontier trade confined solely to that passing beyond British territory altogether. An at-$1.92 owing to the plaintiff, and judgment would tempt has been made, however, to get at the trade of Bhamo by keeping a register derived from the manifests of the vessels engaged in the conveying of merchandise between Mandalay and Bhamo. Some of this trade, no doubt, and probably a very considerable portion of it, is merely a local trade between these two important Burmese towns. But a part also must be a genume trans-frontier trade. Of course, as no trust worthy statistics were kept by the Burmese Gosernment, it is quite impossible to ascertain how is something though to have got at the total of a year's trade, as a basis by which to measure fu-

After all that has been said about the enormous trade possible with Western China and passing should probably have had more trouble at Bhamo, and land there would scarcely be advancing in value so rapidly as it seems to be doing. The inference is that the total of 37 lakhs may be taken as a not unfair estimate of what the total trade between Mandalay and Bhamo, including the trade to Yunnan, has been in the time of the Burmese kings, How much of this is local trade and how much genuine trans-frontier trade, we can only conjecture from the articles named, and these would lead one to infer that less than half which was "exported" to the value of nearly 61 January, 1887. lakhs. This probably was for the most part a real export to the region beyond our boundsries. Of the Rs. 83,000 worth of salt, too, a good deal may have gone into the Kachyen hills and elsewhere; so may some piece goods and yarns, which, however, aggregate only about 23 lakhs. ### OF MORTGAGES.

The spirited debate on the Irish Land Bill the House of Commons evolved a proposal which though at present novel and indignantly scouted is one to which bankers and dealers in credit generally will do well to accustom themselves it time, for if events are allowed to drift as they promise to do, it will most certainly be speedily brought within the range of practical politics The fall in prices has caused rents to appear exorbitant, hence the demand for the reduction of Irish rents, which has been partly granted. But rents are by no means the only charges to be considered, and Lord Randolph Churchill has ventured to think that "it would not be inequitable, or unreasonable, or impolitic, for the House to consider the position of the Irish landlords as affected by the legal reductions of rent-their position in connection with settlements and mortgages." As to settlements or jointures, the Government are already prepared to permit with regard to Ireland a change in the mode of calculation; but the large question of mortgages has as yet, been touched upon only by Lord Randolph Churchill, who, in an eminent spirit of fair-play proposes a clause in the Irish Bill to give power to the Land Courts to review, with large equitable jurisdiction, the mortgages on estates, and to make certain reductions in thom.

This is a proposal which will at first strike most people as revolutionary, but which, in the present state of things, is one that is very likely to be adopted before long. If the neglect of the State to properly perform one of its most important duties—that of preserving in good order the monetary standard—result in necessitating a readjustment of rents, it will equally necessitate an equitable rearrangement of other burdens, among which mortgages assuredly hold a first place. That this will happen unless the double currency standard be introduced is about as plain as that two and two make four; for no definitely squeezed out of what is morally

... W. DOBERCK. Hougkong Observatory, 26th August, 1887. A PAUPER'S DYING REQUEST.

An amusing and yet pathetic incident in what annals of the poor," is told by Mr. John J. R. Micklejohn, one of the Inspectors of the Poor, at Lerwick, Shetland Islands. He says that some time ago an old woman, named Barbara Smith, came under the notice of the Board. She was extremely ill, and it did not look likely that she' would long need care of any kind. She did not reside on the mainland, but on a small island a few miles distant, and there being no parcohial institutions in that place, Barbara necessarily occupied the position of a pauper living out. The trouble from which she suffered dated back many had in some way laid the foundation for Chronic Indigestion and Dyspepsis, and out of this had sprung other complaints as age and bodily infirmities crept apace upon her.

Barbara was not ignorant, albeit she had fallen into poverty. In earlier life she somehow obtain ed the advantage of a fair education, and this, added to native shrewdness, enabled her to use good judgment in respect to her own situation and state of health. Although she had long suffered from asthma and a bronchial affection, Barbara was wise enough to see that these ail ments arose from the disordered stomach and digestion, and that if the main trouble could be probable that her disease began as others do, with the usual symptoms: headaches, bad breath, the rising of sour fluids in the throat, oppression and faintness at the pit of the atomach, loss of sleep coated tongue, dull eyes, bad tast in the mouth, &c., and finally became chronic and hopeless through her not being able to find any remedy Hongkong Gas Company's Shares-$125 per | The Inspector states that she had been under medical treatment for years, but to no effect. In this strait she one day made the following touching appeal to the Inspector: "I have been swal-Lowing medicines for months. They do me no good. I am going on from worse to worse. I can endure it no longer. I feel that in a week or two I shall be dead. There is one last request I would make of you: give me a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup; it is my only hope. If it proves a failure and does me no good I will die in peace and make no more expense to the parish."

. It seems she had got hold of one of Mother Seigel's Almanacks and read of the great cures-The Board pitied the poor lone woman and granted her petition, believing, however, the

Syrup would prove as useless as the other medicines she had already taken. What was their astonishment to find, in the course of a out of bed, but to move about outside the house and had taken journeys to a considerable dis- S. The asthma despatch. and bronchitis, which were no more than symptoms of her true disease (indigestion and dyspep. sia), rapidly abated, and it now seems that Barbara will soon be as hale and hearty as the Inspector himself, and be one of the hosts of living witnesses to the power of Mother Seigel's Syrup to save the thousands who were just ready
